ROBERTSON COUNTY'S HERITAGE OF HOMES by Deborah Kelley Henderson; With research by Jean McClanahan Durrett; Photography by Cary R. Henderson.

Hard Back. $10.00 plus $1.00 handling charge. Tennessee residents include 6% sales tax. Order from Robertson County Antiquities Foundation, 403 N. Pawnee Drive, Springfield, TN 37172.

This delightful book contains pictures and descriptions of 64 homes of Robertson County dating from the early 1800's. A photograph of each house is shown with an architectural description. This information alone is worth the price of the book, but as "icing on the cake" a sketch of the family who built the home is included.

For instance, the information on the Benjamin Elliott House tells us that Benjamin was a native of Pennsylvania who came to Robertson County in 1807. It gives his wife's maiden name, his military history, and contains data on the next generations who lived in the house.

If your interest is architecture or genealogy, you should add this book to your library.

THE NAME & FAMILY OF McMAHAN by Sara (Sally) McMahan Fuller, Route 1, Box 127, Rock Island, TN. 38581. 534 pages. Soft bound. No Index.

This book covers nine generations of McMahans from Redmond McMahan b. 1731 in County Clare, Ireland. The family settled in Virginia and North Carolina, moving later into Tennessee, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Mrs. Fuller includes many land records for this family, all reproduced in facsimile of the original documents from the record books. Also of interest is the copy of the pension application made by Redman McMahan in Warren Co., Tennessee, on October 20, 1834, at the age of 103.

The reproduction of the original documents allows the researcher to read the document for himself. In some cases the reproduced writing is almost impossible to read; but, for the most part, the form is acceptable.

Family group sheets are shown for each family. There is even a sheet started for children born as late as 1977, making it simple to update the book with ease. Some blank sheets are also included.

The addition of an index would have made this book more useful to a researcher trying to locate a particular individual.

Colmore Duval of Clarksville.

This story is taken from a detailed and well documented manuscript written by EDYTHE R. WHITLEY, GENEALOGIST-HISTORIAN, Nashville, Tennessee, about 1935. Space will not permit us to publish the entire manuscript. A complete copy may be found in the WHITLEY COLLECTION, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

DUVAL is a Huguenot name; it is listed among the French Refugees to America. The Duvals of Maryland, probably the first of the name in America, was founded by Marene Duvall of "Middle Plantation", Anne Arundel County. He was born 1630-5 and died 1694.

Our story deals with Coleman or Colmore Duval of Montgomery County, Tennessee, and is not to be confused with Coleman Duval, son of Samuel Duval of Prince George County, Maryland, who married Feb. 5, 1791 Elizabeth Peach.

Colmore Duvall of Clarksville, Tennessee, was the son of Charles Duvall of Maryland, who names his son in his will dated July 24, 1814, and probated September 20th, 1814, on file in Annapolis, Maryland.

Wirt A. Duvall, M. D., Baltimore, Maryland, wrote on December 16, 1933, that Coleman Duvall married a Miss Clark and had a son, Grafton, who went to Ohio.

According to the same authority, Colmore (also called Coleman) left his family in Maryland and migrated to what is now Clarksville, Tennessee. He appears to have married again in Tennessee or Kentucky.

In the First Surveyor's District Book I (eye) Page 346, Warrant No. 1195 issued by the Commissioners of West Tennessee to Colmore Duvall and Barbey DUVV for 410½ acres, entered 45 1/8 acres in Montgomery County on waters of McAdoo's Creek, adjoining James McCrory and Jeremiah Brown. About the same time 132½ acres on the same warrant was issued to Colmore Duvall on the Brush Fork of the Little West Fork of Red River, adjoining Hugh McClure's and W. Tait. There were other entries for various amounts of land on waters of Fletcher's Fork of Red River and elsewhere in the same general locality.

From a descendant, Ben J. Jett, of Lovelaceville, Kentucky, August 6, 1933, who was then 79 years of age, comes the following information:

"My maternal grandfather was Captain Colmore Duvall, a native of Virginia. He married a lady from Maryland. He was an "Old Virginia Gentleman" with some means. About the year 1800 he came to Tennessee and settled in Clarksville. But he was of a festive nature and by reason of broad hospitality and high life he soon found his little fortune was consumed.

Soon after, he died leaving our grandmother with no possessions save seven small children. But, she was no ordinary woman. Her strong common sense, energy, and faith in God enabled her to meet the situation. She reared her children, giving them the common school education at that time.

One of the sons died in childhood. Uncle Colemore, the other son, received the benefit of a higher education. He bore his father's given name and was prominent as a teacher of languages. His son, Pitt, was a minister and at one time a presiding Elder in the Louisville Conference. I met him in Paducah a few years ago and he was quite a portly looking gentleman.

I suppose you remember when Uncle Colemore and his two girls visited us? I remember the visit very well. Pitt, when a boy, spent a winter with us at our home. Grandmother had a sister that she had lost sight of; in fact, she did not know that her sister was living. But she found her. It came about this way. Her sister, a "Mrs. Meaddoc", lived in Cincinnati. Her son was travelling from his home down the Ohio River to some Southern city. While on the boat he incidently heard someone mention the name "Duvall". He became interested and made inquiries and learned that Grandmother was his aunt. On his return from his business, he came to see her. When he returned home and told his mother, "Mrs. Meaddoc", she and another son, John, at once came to see Grandmother. It was a happy meeting, meetings of the kind one seldom sees. After a week of happy association, they returned to their home and soon after Grandmother passed away.

I do not remember the visit of our great aunt for I was just a kid myself, but the whole circumstances made an impression on my boy mind that is unforgettable.

Grandmother was a Duvall before her marriage. I do not know whether she and Grandfather were related or not. I wish I knew more about my ancestry. My paternal grandfather came from England. There were two brothers. My grandfather was one of them. My grandmother Jett, I have been told, was "nee" Edelin. Grandfather Jett was twice married, and there were twelve of us children, eight boys and four girls. The oldest boy and the youngest girl both died when quite young. My three oldest brothers died in the Confederate War. Brother Bob died of worn-out age; Rafe fell from a building at Franklin (Tenn.) where he was at work and died from the injuries sustained in the fall; Little brother Ferdie died of consumption; Sister Martha and Mary, you know, were well advanced in age when they were called. Sister Bettie died of Measles. Thus they have all passed. "

"Mothers, Fathers, Uncles, Aunts, Brothers, Sisters, Cousins, and just you and I are left waiting for God to call us."

Coleman or Colmore Duvall married after he arrived in Tennessee, Martha Conn, daughter of Raphael Conn of Maryland. His reason for moving to Tennessee was probably poor health, but he was definitely a man of much wealth. The records of Montgomery, Stewart, and other counties evidence his many transactions and his activity as a pioneer and developer of the section was outstanding.

An Act appointing Commissioners to Contract for the building of the Court House, Prison and Stocks in the County of Montgomery at Clarksville, examined by J. Cocke, Joel Lewis, Jo. Conway, was received by the Secretary of State's Office, Wm. Maclin, Secretary. This paper is on file in the State Archives, and sets out that Coleman Duval was granted a contract for the erection of these buildings and is dated July 16, 1822. Various documents are on record pertaining to this project.

Colmore Duvall appears in Montgomery County, Tennessee, about 1803-4 for the first time. By 1809 he was actively engaged in all sorts of transactions. From the time he arrived he purchased much land, but eventually the records are full of his sales to Jacob Rudolph, Nathaniel Sanderson, Samuel Nance, Geo. Kirk, John Rudolph Sr., William I. Tynes (or Lynes), Duncan Stewart, Abraham Allen, Hugh McClure and James Elder and numerous others. Much of his land was also purchased at the Sheriff's sale.

An order of the Worshipful Court of Montgomery County, at their April Term 1822, appointing the undersigned Commissioners to examine the accounts between Colmore Duvall and the said County of Montgomery relative to building the Court House in the town of Clarksville, beg leave to report that they have examined all the vouchers and accounts now in the possession of one of the surviving Commissioners appointed to contract for and superintend said building and also have had a view of the contract entered into, and that the said Duvall undertook the said work for the sum of nine thousand five hundred dollars and from the receipts and orders signed with his own hand, it appears that he received at different times the sum of nine thousand six hundred and six dollars and 60 cents, leaving a balance in favor of the said County of one hundred and six dollars and 60 cents. Given under our hands this 16th day of July 1822...Jas. Parret, J. B. Reynolds.

Duvall also had numerous dealing in buying and selling slaves which appeared to be a most profitable business in those days.

When Colmore Duvall died he was a poor man, leaving his family little or nothing. He had lived the life of an expensive son, filled with dissipation. The records of Montgomery County will evidence this fact with many recordings.

The following is an Extract from the Autobiography of Henry Clay Morrison, son of Robert R. Morrison and Mary Duvall Morrison, Pub. Methodist Pub. House 1917:

"My maternal grandfather was Colemore Duvall, a native of Maryland. He married a lady from Virginia. His vocation was that of a contractor and builder with some means. Coming West about the year 1800, he settled in Clarksville, the County Seat of Montgomery County, Tennessee, where he

"built the first courthouse in that town"....."My mother, Mary Duvall (Morrison) was the third eldest of the five daughters. She and my father, Robert R. Morrison, were married in 1834. He followed farming in his native State (Tennessee) until 1857, when he removed to Graves County in Western Kentucky, and later to the City of Paducah, where he closed his life at the age of seventy seven years. I saw the light of the world on the 30th day of May 1842 in a small plain cottage about five miles from Clarksville, Tennessee."

Sally Dickson wrote to her sister, Mary Ann Morrison, from Woodford, Tennessee, June 23, 1858, as follows - "My dear Sister -- It becomes my painful duty to announce to you that Mother is no more. She departed this life Monday evening, the 21st, at half past three o'clock in the full triumph of a living faith. Mary, I would have rejoiced if you could have been with me in her last moments to see how calm and with what resignation she died." "Her remains were carried to the church and her funeral was preached to a large weeping congregation by Brother Nolen on the 22nd at two o'clock. Signed Your true sister until death. Sally Dickson."

The children of Colmore Duvall and Martha Conn, his wife -

1. Louisa Ann Duvall married Alfred Jett. Already mentioned.
2. Sarah (Sally) married Joseph Dickson. Joseph Dickson was the son of Joseph and his wife, Martha Ann Cowan Dickson. Joseph was born October 20, 1812; married February 12, 1835; and died January 7, 1858. Sarah Ann Duvall was born March 31, 1816, and died July 6, 1862. They had eleven children. (See Whitley Collection for Dickson family history)
3. Mary Ann Duvall married Robert R. Morrison. This branch of the family has been referred to.
4. Colemore Duvall, Jr. Located in Trigg County, Kentucky.
5. A daughter who married Mr. McAdoo. Lived in Cincinnati, Ohio.
6. Eleanor Duvall.

In Montgomery County, there is a deed dated March 15, 1809 that is of interest. JONES, LANKFORD, SHOARS: Would like information about Alsey Jones, wife, Dorthea, listed on 1850 Census of Montgomery County, TN.

Also, Griffin Lankford, b. ca 1829; Nicholas Lankford and their sister, Bethiah b. ca 1836. Griffin married Mary Shoars, Dec. 24, 1852. What happened to him? Did he have a family? Nicholas was not listed in the same household in 1850 Montgomery County census with Nicholas and Bethiah. He was older than Griffin. What happened to Nicholas? Did he marry? If so, to whom? What happened to Bethiah? Did she marry? If so, to whom?

There are a lot of Lankfords in Clarksville. Surely someone knows something. Would appreciate any information on any or all of the above.
